

"A very informative and thought-provoking session..."

(East Kent Teacher – year 6)

Up the Chimney ... Down the Mine

Is Child Labour always bad for children?

A new workshop for schools!

Get pupils Thinking. Help them to Empathise. Links well with teaching of child labour in 'Victorians', as well as PHSE and The Global Dimension.
(Upper KS 2 – Lower KS 3)

Should children work? If so, what kind of work, and for how long? Should children be expected to support their families - or is all child labour bad? What is happening in the world today, and what has happened in the past? If things aren't right, what can we do?

The workshop gives opportunities for debate and role-play, as well as a chance to examine The Universal Rights of Children. It is offered as half day or a whole day. To find out more and to book this workshop, contact WEDG on 01227 766552, or email info@wedg.org.uk.
